

St John's School Weekly Newsletter

This week, boys' learning has been inspired by innovative and creative interactions with the world around us. We have enjoyed highly successful musical and sporting performances, with some impressive victories. Our senior boys contributed to National Poetry Day, crafting and performing imaginative poems inspired by Maya Angelou and the environment.

Teachers and older boys celebrated neurodiversity and learnt about tolerance and respect for all types of learners in our community. I am proud of the inclusive, empathetic atmosphere at St John's, and am grateful for the ongoing learning opportunities in this important area.

Elsewhere, boys learnt through plenty of role playing and games, bringing to life a diverse range of topics from Goldilocks to money to mathematical probability! Drama workshops for Year 5s encouraged empathy for others, and our Juniors have been investigating bugs! We encourage all families to talk about innovation and creativity in the world around us – a topic we will continue with next week.

National Poetry Day 2022

This year's National Poetry Day theme is 'The Environment'. Inspired by this, 8B wrote their own poems, using innovative and powerful language, to reflect their views on the world's changing environment.

The boys presented their work in a thought-provoking assembly. Mr Lawrence, our school Eco leader, thanked them, saying "Your poetry is a really effective way of conveying the important message about changing our world for the better." He welcomed all boys to come along to Eco Club on Friday lunchtime and to share their ideas with the Eco Council reps. You can read more of 8B's poems about the environment at this link.

Only On The Hill Top Will The Sun Shine

George 8B

It loathes the ones who take advantage, Jostles on the ones who inhumanely make fun, Whilst torturing the ones that abhorrently mock The beauty, the power and the strength that is fed From the empathetic mouth of its excellence.

This is our world we destroy,

It teases the ones that violently demolish, Ridicules the ones that subconsciously terminate its existence, As well as beheading the hope that is left for the sun to shine. The pressure is victorious, It has assassinated the light.

This is our world we destroy,

But, for some,

It shines on the ones that aid its need for assistance, Rewards the ones who give it their helping hand, Whilst remunerating the ones that restore the hope in this dead, yet still living, skeletal-like Earth.

This is our world we are trying to aid,

It beams a spotlight on the ones that are triumphant, In saving an unsavable site of demolition.

This is the power that we take advantage of, Because,

This is our world we are trying to aid,

And all it needs is you.

Year 6 have been exploring probability

Each game was skewed to favour one player

The boys then worked out the probability of winning each game.

Neurodiversity and Mental Health

This week, our Year 3 to 8 boys were very lucky to have a visit from Sam Garner, a Mental Health and Inclusion Consultant. Sam gave an engaging talk on Neurodiversity covering learning differences such as ADHD, Autism, Dyslexia and Anxiety. The boys were shown short videos on how these learning differences affect our everyday lives and the strategies that we can use to help us especially, at school.

Innovative presentation

Mihir in 8B presented his Earth in Space summer project in a very innovative way, creating a display which features all the answers to the assignment questions.

Using drama to see history through fresh eyes

Year 5 enjoyed an English and Drama workshop led by Mrs Long during which they explored situations and emotions beyond their direct experience, described in the historical novel "Street Child" by Berlie Doherty

More things going on around the School

A different approach in Senior Choir

Learning about families in the Nursery

The Lambs have been learning about families. They listened to the story of 'Goldilocks and the Three Bears.' They got into character being Daddy bear, Mummy bear, Baby bear and thoroughly enjoyed acting out the story.

Reception have been exploring the forest

Year 1 say: "Show us the money"

This week the Otters and Owls have started a Maths topic about 'money'. It has been a good chance to practise number skills in a new way!

Year 3 have been learning to cross the road

Year 4 are fascinated by bugs

Year 4 have been looking at bugs this week as part of their study of invertebrates. 'Are they real?' asked one small boy. 'They're horrible,' said another. Fortunately, both classes bravely made notes on the array of insects and arachnids put in front of them. Unlike the bugs, Year 4 demonstrated real backbone and settled to the task in hand with enthusiasm.
